Constraints on Harming and Health Care II: The Doctrine of Double Effect

Howard Nye, PhD
Associate Professor
Department of Philosophy, University of Alberta

Friday, 16 December
12:00 - 13:00 MST/MDT
Dvorkin Centre (2G2.07 WMC), University of Alberta Hospital

According to the Doctrine of Double Effect (DDE), there is an inherent moral difference between causing or allowing harm as a means to an end and causing or allowing harm as a side effect. Traditionally, it has been thought that the DDE is very important in the context of medical ethics, and that (among other things) it makes assisted death much harder to justify than other death-hastening treatment decisions. But a closer look at the plausible ethical ideas embodied in the DDE can seem to overturn this traditional understanding of its applicability to medical ethics. I will explore these issues with specific attention to the sort of harm with which the DDE should be concerned and its interaction with issues of autonomous choice.

For more information, please call 780-492-6676 or visit www.bioethics.ualberta.ca

To register for Telehealth please visit http://www.bioethics.ualberta.ca/Health%20Ethics%20Seminars.aspx or contact your local Telehealth provider or dossetor.centre@ualberta.ca

EVERYONE WELCOME!!